

Feltham Community College

E-Safety Agreement

Firstly we would like to thank Year 9, who in the summer of 2009, have helped draw up the content of this E-Safety Agreement.

There are four main factors (centred around the four Cs) to understand when using Internet based services. It is important to understand both the benefits and risks.

Content

Benefit: I understand that the Internet gives everyone access to a fantastic range of learning materials.

Risk: I understand the College will try to block inappropriate websites but each student must not deliberately access inappropriate content.

Contact

Benefit: I understand the importance of the Internet in helping people learn through social networking software.

Risk: I understand the significant dangers of making contact with unknown people on the Internet and letting them have any personal details, having been lured into a false sense of security.

Commerce

Benefit: I understand the Internet has helped drive down prices and help with family budgets.

Risk: I understand advertising can lead to dangerous and unknown websites where you put yourself in danger.

Culture

Benefit: I understand the Internet can be used to help people get along.

Risk: I understand cyber bullying is totally unacceptable.

Five E-Safety Rules

I will remain on task when using computers and mobile devices in lessons

I will never logon as anyone else or steal personal data

I will use a secure password including capital letters, lowercase letters and a mix of numbers. I understand including symbols makes the password even more secure.

I will never enter personal details without guidance from staff

I will report misuse of any form of computers or mobile devices such as phones
